

Project and Program Management

Examples

- Strategic initiatives
- Major RFP responses
- Customer program management
- Business process improvement initiatives
- New IT system implementation
- IT infrastructure build-outs
- Outsourcing projects

Services

- Direct project management
- Assisting and coaching the client's project manager
- Project management process improvement
- Project management education and training
- Project management software selection and implementation
- Establishing a Program Management Office (PMO)

Benefits

- Obtain project management experience not available in-house
- Leverage the limited time or availability of in-house project managers
- Maximize likelihood of success for critical initiatives
- Mitigate risk of project or program failure

Business success often depends on project and program success—whether in developing new products, responding to a major request for proposal, delivering on multi-year customer contracts, improving business processes, or implementing new IT systems.

Yet many organizations do not have core competencies in program and project management. Business leaders may be skilled in managing day-to-day operations but lack the experience to effectively manage large or complex projects. And those few managers that do have the background or experience often don't have the time to focus on full-time project or program management.

Strativa can provide experienced talent for project and program management. Our project managers have a track record of managing large-scale and complex projects in a variety of industries. They have the technical skills needed to plan and track complex projects with interrelated tasks and shared resources. And they have the soft skills needed to build and manage cohesive cross-functional project teams.

Our project managers can come in to directly lead client projects or they can serve in an advisory and coaching role to the client's in-house project manager. In addition, we can assist the organization in developing those core competencies and processes needed to effectively manage such initiatives in-house in the future.

For more information, please contact:
Strativa Inc., 2082 Business Center Drive Suite 240, Irvine, CA 92612
(949) 442-0099 or info@strativa.com

www.strativa.com